Michael Osborn takes the plunge.

James Martin has a go at boarding but the snow ends up getting him.

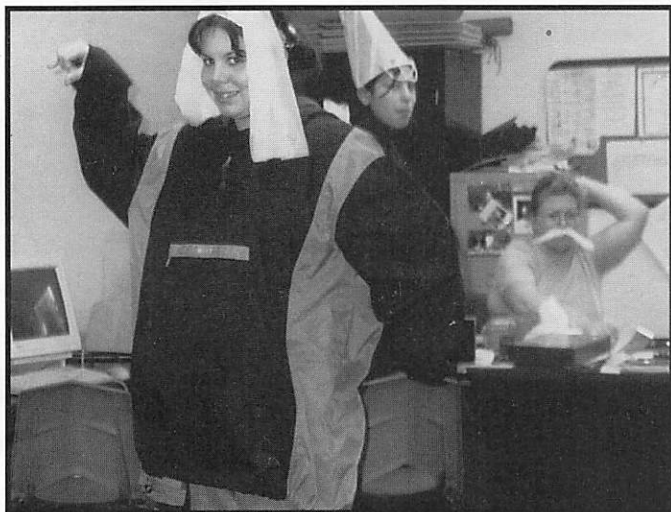

Break time from the first lesson.

Halloween at OJS

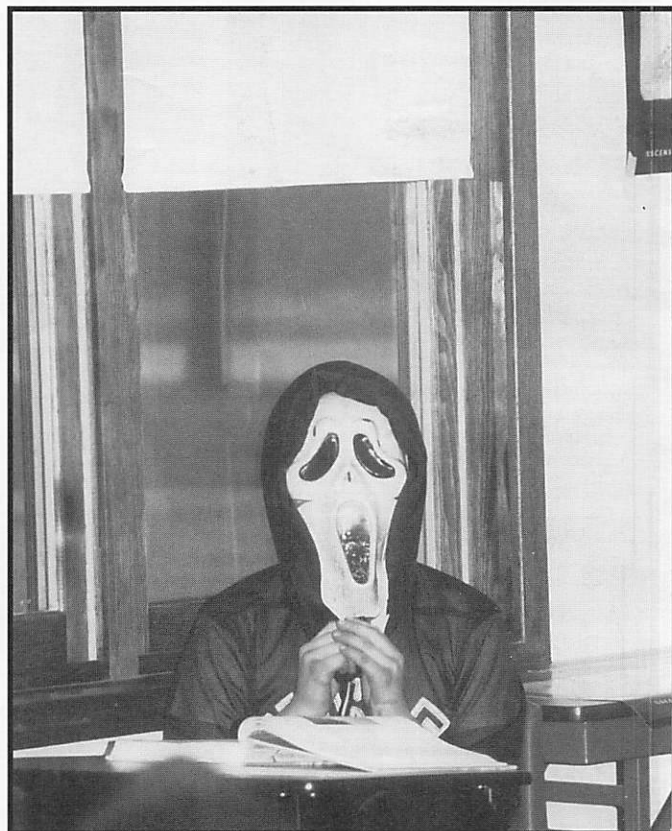

Students and faculty at the Ojibwe School used this holiday as an excuse to finally show their hidden personalities.

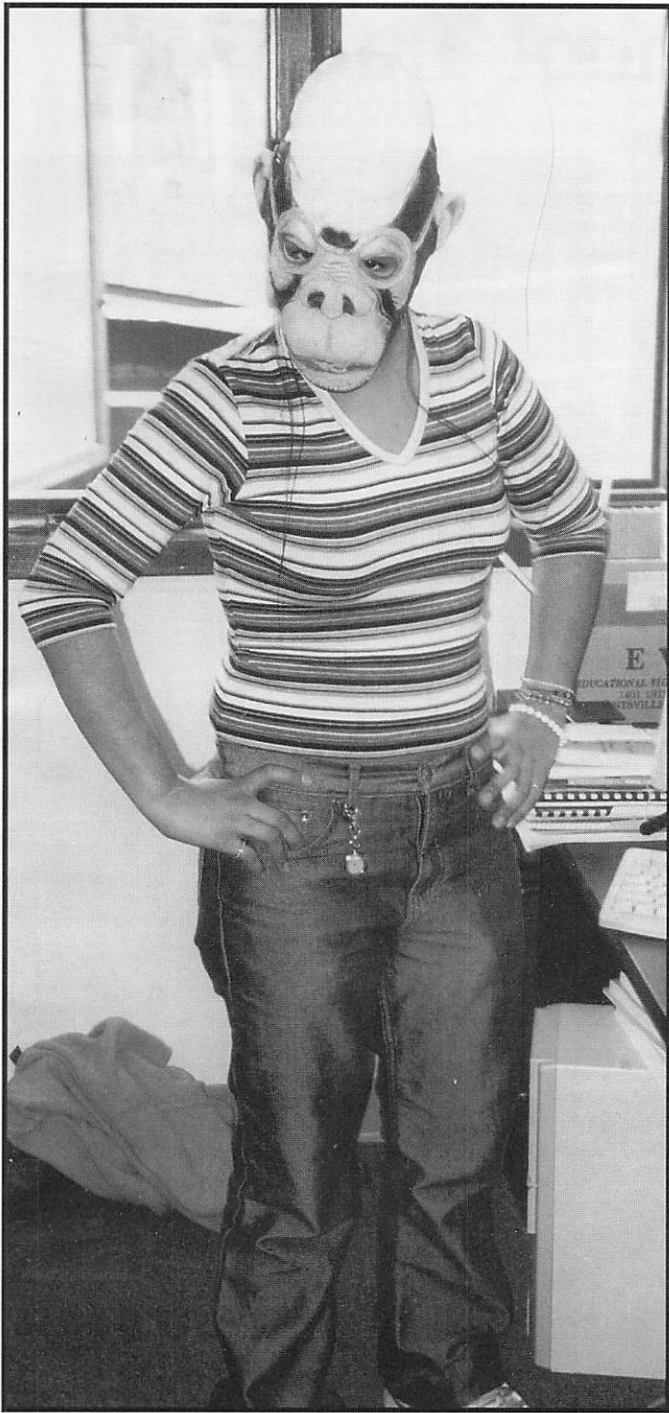

Miss Maybelle (a.k.a. John Henry) handed out treats to all the little girls and boys in their high school classes.

"I wish I were a princess!" Carissa Ammesmaki flexes for the camera.

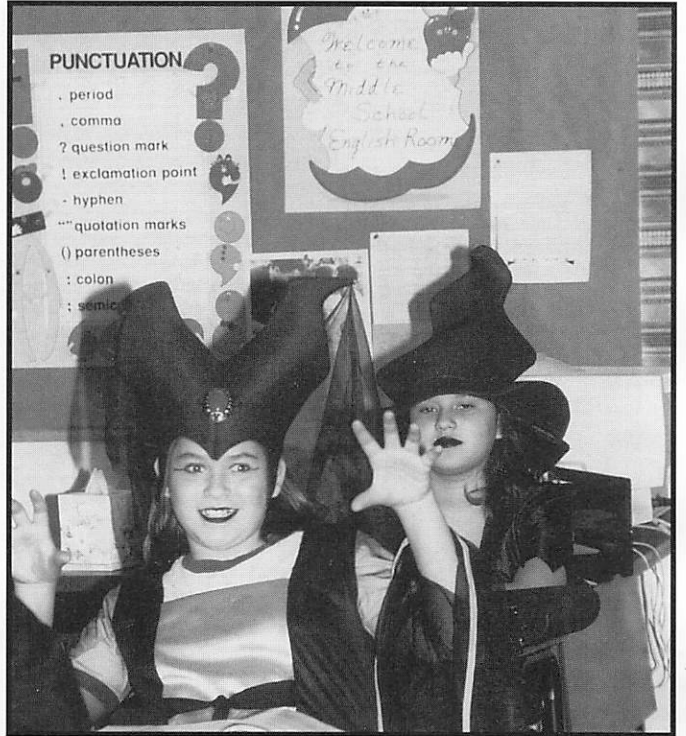

Middle school classes must be pretty tough to cause this long of a face.

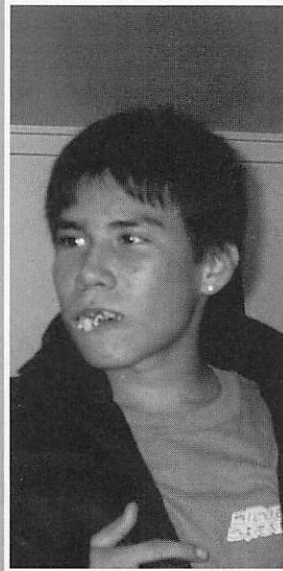

Monkey Girl Tara Benjamin say, "What you talking about?"

"You're getting very, very sleepy."
Alicia Anderson attempts to control her classmates.

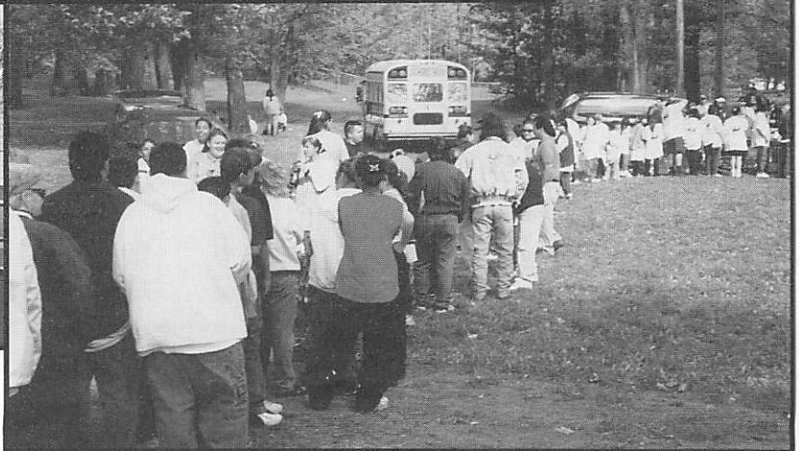

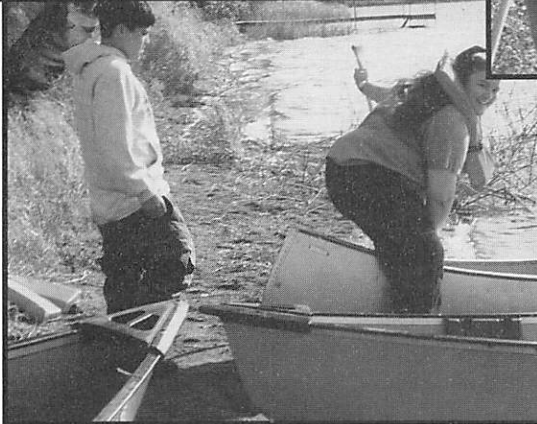

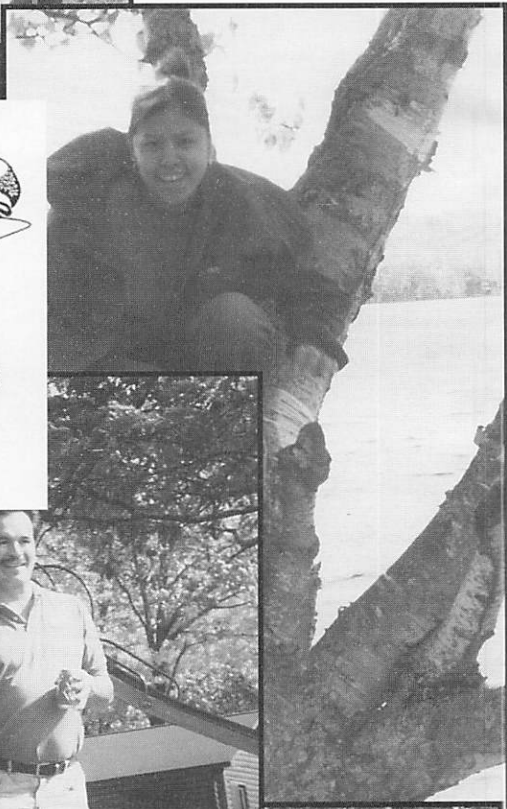

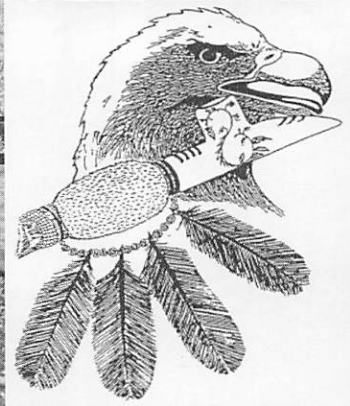

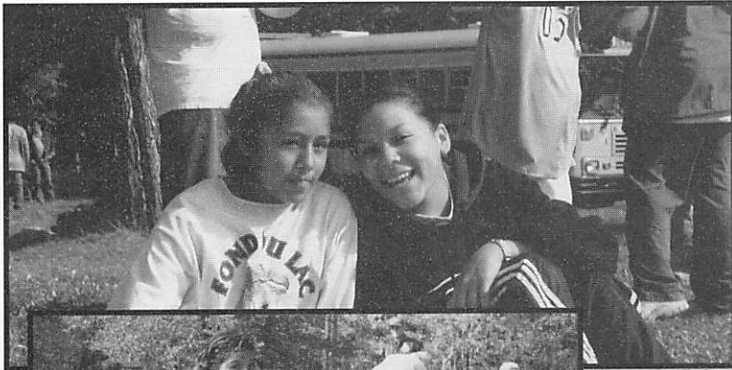

Billy Bob

Why didn't I brush my teeth everyday like the dentist told me? Well, it's not so bad... there is always a meal stuck somewhere in here.

Friendship

Honesty, Trust, and Laughter are what you look for in a friend.

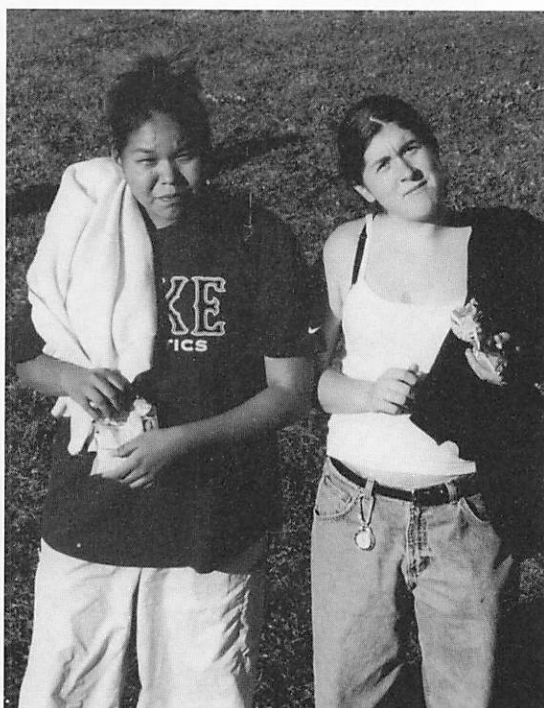

At the Ojibwe School everyone is close.

Warren, Scuba, and Slim show off the third most important parts of friendship, laughter.

Debbie Thompson and Katherine Couture trust in their friendship - the second quality listed as most important by OJS students.

Linda Clark and Teresa Long show how close two friends can be.

Liking the same things was another important factor in friendship. Here John Maio and Sheree Defoe are listening to some music.

OJS Fashion Style

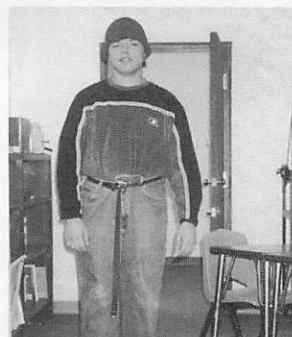

The Ojibwe School is getting down with fun fashion. Student's favorites are FUBU, Nike, and Tommy (Hilfiger not Morgan). They know how to kick it in their own unique way.

You Got the Look

Sheree Defoe as a super-duper-star.

Looks like Ernie Diver has a special style all his own.

"Luke, you must save the galaxy." Maria VanNett has some serious Star Wars style going on.

With the power of the Nike swoosh, Tara Benjamin keeps warm and keeps smiling.

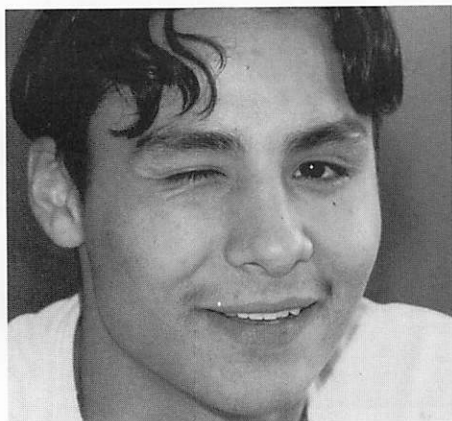

OJS Hair Style

Do you want your locks braided, twisted, or shaved? Or would you prefer to just cover it up with a hat or shove your comb in it? The options at OJS are unlimited.
