A New Beginning

Niigahnii Gwuhne'yaush
Lester Jack Briggs

The Fond du Lac Ojibwe School would like to dedicate their 2002 Yearbook to Lester Jack Briggs - Niigahnii Gwuhne'yaush (Leading Feather). Jack was truly a model of a man living his dream. His dream was to somehow help Anishinabe people survive and be successful in today's diverse world. His tool for success in this changing world was education. Jack always mentioned the Ojibwe School in his conversations. He was very proud of the school and that vision the Ojibwe School represents. He shared his pride in the Ojibwe School with many people throughout the country. Jack gave countless struggling people a few simple words that I'm sure he would want Ojibwe School students to always remember. These words are "Don't worry-You can do it." - Joe Martineau

Homecoming

After years of no homecoming at the Fond du Lac Ojibway School, it finally returned! The whole week of October 11th was full of events. Activities for students included the Blue-Gold Day where staff and students wore school spirit colors, a Puff-Puff Volleyball game where senior volleyball players chose teams of boys to compete against each other at a game of volleyball. The Powderpuff Football game was for girls to tear it up on the football field. On the big Homecoming Day there was a pep-assembly where all the team players were cheered on and King & Queen nominees were introduced. Finally, the week ended with a Varsity Football game against Albroom, a Varsity Volleyball game against Bug School, a gigantic bonfire behind the new school, and a seriously sweaty dance!

Oshkimaajshkada

Finally, the Fond du Lac Ojibwe School opened its doors to staff, students, and community on January 7th, 2002. Some people had waited over twenty years and some were walking through its doors for the first time. But it was worth the wait.

What began with an idea and through the efforts of parents and community members and the support of tribal leaders the Fond du Lac Ojibwe School opened its doors for the first time in January 1980.

Now, in 2002, a new and state of the art Ojibwe School is here.

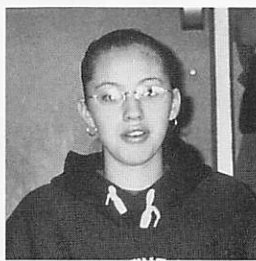

What do you like about the new school?

Tara Benjamin likes that we are all together in one building.

Krysta Reynolds likes the art room, the playground, and the gym.

Renee Defoe likes that we have lockers and the home-ec classes.

Ways to Deal with Stress

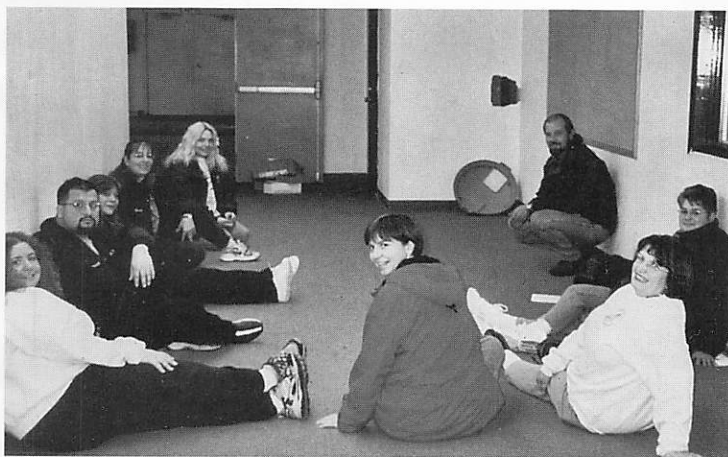

Ways to Deal with Stress

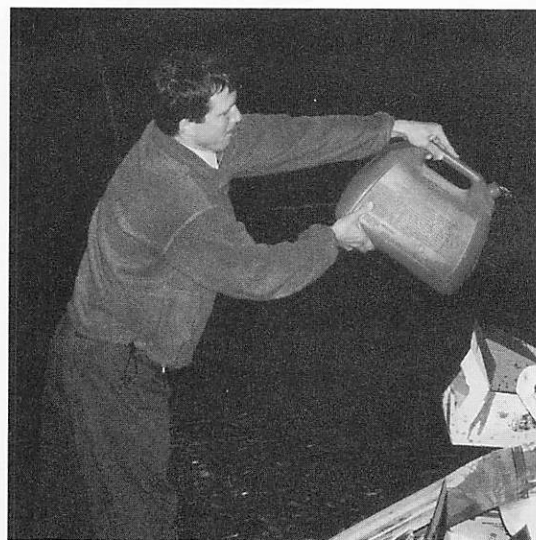

Get out into the great outdoors.

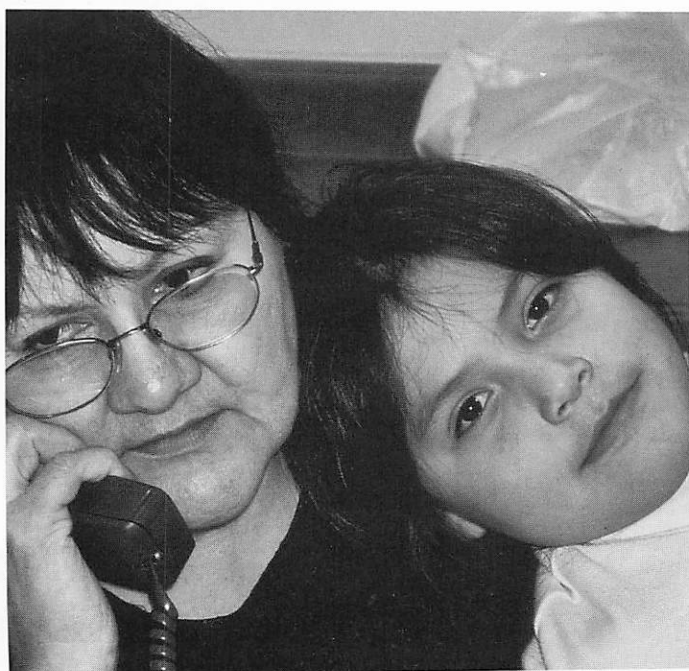

Watch some television.

Hang out with friends.

Sit by a fire.

Talk with family.
